Re: Our relationship – Noa Levi and John Smith

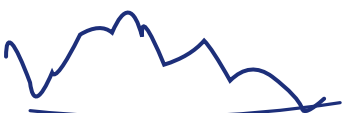

We, Noa Levi and John Smith, met in March 2021 in Tel Aviv. John had come to Israel for six months for his company, and a friend of ours, Daniel, invited us both to a Friday dinner at his apartment in Florentin. We sat next to each other, talked all evening about travel and music, and exchanged numbers at the end of the night. A week later we went on our first date, on the Tel Aviv promenade.

Our relationship grew quickly. In July 2021 we took our first trip together, to the Galilee, and in August 2021 Noa introduced John to her family at a holiday dinner in Haifa. When John's project in Israel ended in September 2021, he decided to stay, and in November 2021 we moved in together, at 12 Herzl Street in Ramat Gan. In December 2022 we flew to Boston, and Noa met John's parents and sisters.

In June 2023, on a trip to the Golan Heights, John proposed. Since we couldn't have a civil marriage in Israel, we married in Larnaca, Cyprus, on 14 September 2023, in a small ceremony with our parents and three close friends. When we came back, we threw a party for our family and friends in Tel Aviv.

Today we live together in Ramat Gan. Noa is a nurse at Sheba Medical Center, and John is a software developer. We have a joint bank account, we share the rent and the household expenses, and on weekends we visit Noa's family in Haifa or meet friends. We plan to buy an apartment and start a family here, in Israel.
